CALIFORNIA CANDIDATES AWAIT COUNT AT HOMES

Voting Is Reported As Heavy In Many Sections Of

This State

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Reports from various sections of the state show that early morning voting was heavy in many of them. Those from the south reported a heavy vote in country districts and smaller towns, and an average vote in the larger cities. The vote in San Francisco, was heavy in the morning, and it is expected the late afternoon vote will also be heavy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The great American jury to-day registered its verdict on the work of those who have controlled the Nation's political destiny the past two years and expressed its judgment concerning the control to be exercised for the coming two years.

With the opening of the polls this morning, the "off year" congressional election was over. The entire membership of the house of representatives was to be decided, and thirty-four United States senators. Thirty-three governors, many state legislatures and a host of state, county and municipal officials were to be chosen.

Election day found leaders of the Republican party swept into power two years ago on the crest of a landslide, claiming gains in the senate and conceding losses in the house, but insisting they would control the next house by from forty to sixty votes. Democratic leaders disputed Republican claims of senatorial gains and said the house margin would be cut to twenty or perhaps wiped out.

The people were voting largely on a local basis. That is, there was no great nation-wide political enthusiasm and the issues were local rather than national. Politicians called it a "spotty election," because in some states the interest was strong, while in most of them apparently prevailed up to election day. These states presented the most interesting contests:

Ohio Interest Center Ohio—President Harding's home state, was asked, by all the "big guns" of the administration to give strong approval to the president and policies by electing Carmel Thompson, governor and Simon D. Bess to the senate. Democrats made an aggressive fight behind Senator Atlee Pomerene and V. D. Donely, their candidate for governor.

Governor Runs Hot New York—Interest centered in the gubernatorial contest between former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democrat, and Governor Nathan Miller, Republican. N. Smith wins to-day he will, his friends assert, be the outstanding Democratic figure for the presidency in 1924. The senatorial contest between Senator Calder, Republican, and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, was rather lost sight of in the heat of the Smith-Miller contest.

Lester Fights For Seat Massachusetts—Senator Lodge, early in the year was threatened with difficulties resulting from his attitude on the League of Nations, the Irish question and other issues. Lodge is trying to come back for a sixth term in the senate. His Democratic opponent to-day is William A. Gaston.

Reed Issues In Missouri Missouri—In this state, "fighting Jim" Reed is trying, with the aid of Republican "wet" votes, to prevent

Man Buys' New York Corner For $1,583.33 But 'Sale' Is Bogus

New York, Nov. 7.—Harry Friedman took his place to-day in the hall of fame beside the man who bought Brooklyn bridge from a stranger and he who purchased the right to collect nickels at a subway station.

Friedman told the police that Abraham Seidman had sold him space for a stand on an east side street corner for $1,583.33. He didn't learn until he tried to operate there that Seidman didn't own the corner. Seidman was arrested.

Five violent was this first storm in the winter and so deep the drifts that linemen and telephone men have been unable to even reach the breaks in the other circuits although they have been buckling the snow with tractors and snow plows.

Unless these breaks are reached and repaired before night, coast newspapers will get only a limited service on eastern elections, as eastern circuits working will be pro-rated on a time basis between all regular leases. Such limited service from the East has been effected now since Saturday night.

California Candidates Await Counting Of Votes

Leading telegrams, Johnson's headquarters announced.

Early Voting Brisk

Reports from election booths in San Francisco were that voting was brisk. While officially all candidates had workers in evidence at the polls, supporters and opponents of the water and power bill were the most in evidence here. There was considerable betting on this measure reported, with odds of 10 to 8 against it most generally quoted.

In only two districts of the state were there really spirited contests for candidates. These were in the Los Angeles county district, where controversial Walter Linsberger, Republican, was being opposed by former Congressman Charles H. Randall, Democrat, and prohibitionist, and in Alameda County, where James W. MacLaren, Republican and Hugh W. Brun, Democrat, were fighting it out.

Ernst Opposes Kuhn

Several congressmen were unopposed and others had only Socialists opposition, which was negligible. The only particular interest excepting, possibly in the case of Hugo Black, opposing Julius Kahn in San Francisco, where Ernst had devoted considerable labor and other support.

Most of the contests for places in the state legislature had been decided at the primary, leaving only a few districts where the outcome was in doubt.

Two Senate Contests

In only two state senatorial districts were there serious contests. These were in San Francisco, where P. G. Gray, Republican, was opposed by W. Colombo, Democrat, and in Oakland, where Edgar Hurley, Republican, was running against Frank Cornish, Democrat.

For the senate there was a total of twenty-one contests, many of them brought about by the entry of Socialist candidates.

Both Parties Claim Southern California

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Election day dawned in Southern California with clear weather and, as usual, bright prospects for all political parties.

But a shift in the weather and the election outlook was foisted before the voters.

Predictions Optimistic.

Otherwise all predictions were optimistic.

Both Republicans and Democrats claimed they would sweep the state in statements issued from their headquarters. All forecasts were for a heavy vote unless the storm, reported in the northern part of the state, retarded Southern California. The sun was shining brightly, however, at 5:30.

Both Sides Claim Victory.

Judge Robert B. Clarke, vice-chairman of the Republican state committee, declared that the Republican ticket would carry the southern counties by a majority of at least 115,000. Los Angeles County, he estimated, would give the Republicans 75,000 majority.

At the same time, backers of Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic candidate for governor, declared he held 60 per cent of the voters in Southern California. A statement signed by Charles H. Chapman, Woolwine's campaign manager, claimed the candidate would carry the state by 50,000.

charges in leases of land to large shippers had been, in practical effect, a reduction of transportation charges amounting to a refund.

Privileges Voluminous

The commission based its conclusion chiefly upon facts brought out by the investigation of conditions at Spokane where the investigators found that a city had practically grown up around the right of way of the Northern Pacific, making the lease privileges on the lands of railroads as well as others valuable.

Besides instructing the railroads heretofore to fix rentals on the actual basis of the values of the land rented, the commission also forbade inclusion in the leases or provisions requiring the shipper tenant to route traffic over the railroad renting the land.

Ungrateful Congressmen

"The facts disclosed by this investigation," said the commission report, "strongly support the general conclusion that railroad leases of land not used for railroad purposes have often been a medium of unwarranted concessions to shippers. Effective public supervision in this matter is obviously very difficult and we have reason to believe that this for legislation and the publicity attendant upon it have in themselves led to improvement in the practice of carriers."

"We have in the past referred to the department of justice for appropriate proceedings in cases which seemed to warrant such action. In this connection shippers and others who believe they are entitled to undue protection and disadvantage can be of assistance by bringing such situations to our attention."

We are also showing our counter cards. Make your selections early.

Decision Is Just Says Local Association Head

Commenting on the ruling, W. H. Petersen, president of the Fresno Traffic Association, said to-day:

"The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission is just one because it does not harm shippers or hurt the railroads. All of the organizations placing all of the old form of permitting the railroads to lease or rent industrial sites at low rentals resulted in virtually a dead end.

The application of the decision will be general throughout the United States. There are a number of industries in Fresno on railroad ground with as low a rental as $1 a year. The new rate will be higher but will give the smaller firms a chance to compete."

MEMBERS of the allied commission in Constantinople who have struggled for months to prevent the outbreak of a new war have now taken a firm stand and refused the demands made on them by the Nationalists in Turkey.

This commission was largely responsible for ironing out the difficulties arising out of the Greek defeat in Asia Minor by the forces of Kemal Pasha and their disastrous retreat.

The present situation, however, is the most critical they have faced since they took their posts in the Turkish city, and the commissioners are kept on duty day and night in their efforts to avoid difficulties.

KLAN Feature In Texas

TEXAS—The Ku Klux Klan issue was raised early in the Texas senatorial campaign and resulted in independent Democrats forming a coalition with Republicans behind George E. B. Peddy, who is opposing Earle B. Mayfield, winner of the Democratic senatorial nomination. The issue has been hotly contested.

MINNESOTA—Mrs. Anna Dickie Oleson, Democrat, and Henrik Steensland, Farmer-Labor, have gone after Senator Frank E. Kellogg, Republican, in Minnesota and tongue in one cheek have accused him of being a "Klanite" in his campaign.

NEWBERRY IS Issue

MICHIGAN—The issue of Newberry was prominent all through the campaign of Senator Townsend, Republican, for re-election. Former Governor Morris is opposing him. Townsend voted to seat Senator Newberry, his Michigan colleague, and has been assailed for that vote.

HARDING IN DEATH

N.J.—Death of Harding

NEW JERSEY—Next to Ohio, New Jersey has been the center of the demand for an endorsement of the Harding administration. Senator Frelinghuysen, Republican, is a political and personal intimate of Mr. Harding, and on that ground very largely has conducted his campaign. Governor Edward I. Edwards, Democrat, and "wet," has assailed Frelinghuysen's stand on the wet and dry issue and on other questions, including that of Newberry.

Less Than Twenty Actually Go To Trial To-Morrow In Massacre Case

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The prosecution plans to dismiss indictments against many of the forty-eight men scheduled to go on trial at Marion, Ill., to-morrow on charges of assault with intent to murder in connection with the Herrin mine massacre of last June.

This was revealed to-day by Attorney General Edward Brandeis, who will have charge of the prosecution.

Probably less than twenty will actually go to trial on that charge.

In case the trial, which starts to-morrow, results in a conviction, those men whose cases are not dismissed under the indictment of assault with intent to murder will be brought to trial on other charges now pending against them.

SANITY QUESTION TO DELAY TRIAL

Prosecution To Fight Admission Of Testimony Of Alienists In Phillips Case

(By the United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7.—Prospect of the hammer murder case reaching the jury this week was evaporating to-day during a hearing in the trial at the spot where the killing is expected on the testimony of the alienists.

There was no session of the trial to-day because of the election holiday. Both sides apparently were intent upon organizing along dispute over the sanity of Mrs. Clara Phillips at the time of Mrs. Alberta Meadows' murder.

The moment Dr. Edwin Hoag the only alienist to testify had declared his opinion that Phillips was not sane, District Attorney Irvin Phillips opened a vigorous campaign to discredit the witness.

Dr. Hoag pronounced the crime a perfect example of the results of psychic epilepsy and said the brutality of the killing was typical. If Mrs. Phillips committed the murder she was incapable of realizing her act, he said.

Hoag attempted to show that Dr. Hoag had been a defense witness in the trials of Harry New, Arthur Burch and others, and that the alienist was over-ready to attribute crime to insanity.

Determined By Vote

Deputy Attorney General Robert Richards declared that should both measures carry, the one receiving the highest number of votes would prevail in cases where they conflicted.

Divorce Law Changes Being Sought In Nevada

(By the United Press)

CARSON CITY, Nev., Nov. 7.—Nevada's famous divorce law held a hearing to-day in the spot where the elections here to-day.

Two amendments to the divorce laws of the state were on the ballot, admittedly conflicting on some provisions.

Divorce Law Changes

One would amend the present law so that an interlocutory decree of divorce could not be issued until six months' residence in the state and a final decree six months later.

The second would eliminate what has come to be called the "Mary Pickford short term divorce," made famous by the noted movie queen.

Toys Of Whole World Filling Santa's Kit

By ISABEL MORSE

TOYS will come back into their own this year. So says Santa Claus, and the toy makers of the world are helping him keep his promise. Toys from Austria, toys from the Orient, toys from the East, and toys from California vie with each other for the favor of the children of Fresno.

There are this year more toys than ever. For the European makers are working full steam ahead to make up for the years they have lost and the Americans have learned how to please the little boys and girls of their own country and are turning out wonderful games and practical toys for learning how to do real things that the other countries never even thought about.

Animals Back Again.

There are marvelous brown bears, big enough to sit on, and cows a foot high that moo every time you pull a string. There are goats with great horns that say "baa-as" if you so much as look at them. A warm welcome awaits these pets, for they come from the other side of the world and this is the first year since the war that America has had them.

European playthings are just for fun, while American toys are built for many uses. Motor carts of the most perfect workmanship are made in the United States for small boy experiments in navigation. Along with those are submarines that will dive to the depths of the deepest bathtub and come up again without a mishap.

Electric cooking stoves delight the hearts of little women and every pan and pot to be found in mother's kitchen has its counterpart in the aluminum ware sold with these stoves.

Wooden dolls so life-like that they are being used for models in the art schools, and sold in the department stores of Fresno.

The Can't Say Paper.

The very feminine dolls that just can't exist without talking have improved their speech this year, but there is one thing they can't say even now. That is "papa." "Mamma" is the best they can do but they do that very well.

The dresses for these young women come from London town; there are no doll dressmakers in the United States.

Legionnaires Rap Treatment Given At New Orleans

OKMULKEE (Okla.), Nov. 7.—To hell with New Orleans! on to France!

There was just one clue left, and that was not a very promising one. Harvey Hunt picked up the railroad guide, which was one of the few things Henry Carlton had left behind him.

A majority of the legion delegates leaving the Gulf City bore similar signs, the local delegation said.

Conveniences offered the legionaries while in New Orleans were far from satisfactory, delegates said. Prices on amusements and souvenirs were raised on the ex-soldiers—and on the members of the press and to pay for souvenirs. The city as a whole gave the convention the cold shoulder, it was charged.

From all they were able to learn, San Francisco will accord the delegations handsome treatment returning members said. Hence the sign,

SAN FRANCISCO PROMISES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—All hospitality and real welcome which San Francisco can give will be extended to the 1923 American Legion convention here next summer, local legion and city officials declared, on learning that many of the legionaries were dissatisfied with the welcome at New Orleans.

San Francisco will try to live up to the slogan given it by President Taft at the time of the exposition, San Francisco Knows How. Neither prices on hotels, food nor on anything else will be raised, it was all conventions in this city.

Funeral To-Morrow For Man Killed By Horse

Michael Price, a resident of Fresno, for sixteen years until two months ago, when he moved to a ranch at Fairmead, will be buried in Mountain View Cemetery tomorrow after funeral services in the Zion Congregational Church, at which Rev. Cornelius Bierhorst will officiate.

Price died yesterday in a Madera hospital, where he was taken the previous day after being kicked by a horse. The blow fractured his skull.

Prior to leaving Fresno Price had made his home at 420 D Street. He was 55 years old and a native of Russia.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Anna Price, his daughter, Mrs. Katy Wasmuth, and four sons, Karl, Henry, Conrad and Guy Price.

Arrangements for the funeral are being made by the West Side Undertaking Company. The hour at which the services are to be held will be announced later.

Generous Response
Made On Bundle Day

Arthur Warren, secretary of the Near East Relief Fund, announced today that the response to bundle day appeal had been most generous. Hundreds of bundles were collected from the school yards, fire houses and churches, and with the assistance of the Boy Scouts, they are being sorted and made ready for shipment.

Warren said if any Freemans have more clothing to send, it will be called for by telephoning headquarters at 4770.

The sum of $266 was collected at First Congregational Church, and over $100 at the Memorial Chapel.

The Armenian division reports a collection of $5,200 to date. Solidation of funds will continue throughout the business district to-day.

Find Days ThrillingWORLD SHIPPING GROWING BETTER*Former Head Of Shipping Board Holds Optimistic View

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—The world's shipping business is on the road to improvement, declares Edward A. Hurley, former chairman of the United States Shipping Board and former president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, who is visiting the Pacific Coast. Settlement within a few days of differences among west coast shipping interests will have a stimulating effect on the development of world shipping, Hurley declared.

Commenting on prohibition as regards to ships, Hurley asserted that "it is unfortunate that American vessels should be placed on the defensive in the world's passenger business."

"Very few Americans are not hopeful that something can be done in congress to meet the present exigency in event that the courts uphold Attorney General Daugherty's 'dry seas' ruling," said Hurley.

No. 18—Color Management Color management simply means arranging colors by their position and proportion so that we secure harmony. And harmony means agreement.

Now harmony in the arrangement of colors is obtained, first by contrast and second, by analogy or likeness. Harmony by contrast means using two colors that have nothing in common, such as blue with red, yellow or orange; or yellow with red, blue or violet; or red with yellow, blue or green. As a rule, it is safe to use only a very little of the more brilliant contrasting color as a splash or accent to enliven the greater quantity of the less brilliant color.

Harmony by analogy or likeness allows a broader range of choice, although in many cases it is not possible to secure the same emphatic degrees of brilliancy as we get through harmony by contrast. Harmony by analogy means that two colors composing such a harmony contain more or less of some one element common to both. For example, we may have a harmony by analogy, or likeness, where the colors yellow, green and blue are involved. There is enough of a common element so that yellow and green agree, and enough in common between green and blue so that they agree.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—In spite of all temptations to buyss wings of furs and many of those exquisite embroidered and embossed fabrics to be seen this season, a well-cut cloth coat, possessing that subtle quality called "line" often captures our heart and mind.

This perfect model from Jean Paquin certainly embodies this desirable quality to a marked degree.

To the eye trained for form it gives the pleasure of beholding an extremely elegant composition.

Archaeologists Plan Palestine Excavation

LONDON, Nov. 7.—British archaeologists are greatly interested in plans for early excavation of the ancient City of David, or Mount Ophel, near Jerusalem. Three attempts have been made in recent years to probe into the secrets of this hill, and with some success, but practically the whole of the Jewish original stronghold, the palace and mill of David and probably the tomb of the kings of Judah will be revealed through the work.

Among the obligations taken by Britain in connection with control of Palestine is that of promoting archaeological research and an area of ten acres has been preserved by the administration for excavation. East of the Jordan, it is said, there is one immense, practically untouched site of importance equal to that of Palestine itself. These include ancient Gerasa, where there are wonderful remains of a Roman city, which show that it was one of the most imposing cities of the Roman period.

POISONS USED TO PRESERVE WOOD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Discovery has been made here a way to seal poison in wood which protects complete protection for railroad timbers against the ravages of teredo. Dr. Paul Bartch, curator of the Smithsonian Institution, has found hot paraffin containing copper or arsenic salts into timbers under pressure the wood can be preserved from damage by shipworms and other destructive forms of life.

The method of application is the same as that now used in treating timber with creosote.

It has been found hard heretofore to keep preservatives in the wood. Generally the poisons leak out and leave the timber unprotected. By the use of paraffin, which is resistant to water, acids and alkalis, Dr. Bartch claims this treatment can be overcome and the wood protected more effectively and with less expense than by present preservatives.

Entertainment Feature For Commercial Club's Smoker Is Announced

A large number of applications, received on the eve of the opening of the membership drive to-night during the election smoker, were sorted and voted on by the board for one week by the directors of the Commercial Club at their weekly meeting this noon.

The directors endorsed and signed intention of co-operating with the movement inaugurated by Californians, Inc., to advertise the entire state of California.

A rough draft of the proposed additional quarters of the Commercial Club in the new Holland Building, now under construction, the present edifice will be submitted to the club's board of directors next week.

George Sharp, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged to have the Sevenerance dancers and Mrs. Arch Jack, soloist, entertain at the smoker to-night.

Committees For Roll Call Outline Work

The Red Cross Rollcall Executive Committee met at luncheon to-day at the Hotel Fresno. Franklin Lowney, vice chairman of the annual rollcall drive, called the meeting to order and R. C. Branion, assistant manager of the Pacific division, gave the principal address.

United States Government, through the veterans' bureau, is meeting its obligations in the tremendous problem of hospitalization and rehabilitation in a splendid manner, but it is not able to reach out to the individual man in need. The Red Cross, through its trained workers, is serving the disabled men in their home communities and has expended in the past year more than $7,000,000.

The veterans' bureau would have to spend $10,000,000 to do the same work through its organization. There are twelve hospitals in the Pacific division and personal service possible through the Red Cross contributes greatly to the recovery of the patients," said Branion.

A. E. Sunderland gave a spirited talk on the local Red Cross and the possibilities of the cheapest insurance in the world.

Miss V. N. Pearce, chairman of the civics department of the Parler Lecture Club, has called the entire membership of Fresno Women's Club in the rollcall.

Pledges for life memberships are being obtained by committees under the direction of Elliot Bradley.

Car Shortage Serious In Hood River District

HOOD RIVER (Ore.), Nov. 7.—The refrigeration car shortage, according to local apple shippers, to-night has reached a serious stage. Unless relief comes quickly, early storage and shipping warehouse of the valley will have to cease delivery.

"With facilities for loading forty cars daily, we have been receiving an average of only five cars," said

C. H. Castron, manager of the Hood

River Fruit Company. "Our company has not been supplied with a car for the last two days. We have 10,000 boxes of Spitzbergen at storage warehouse at Odell, and it will be difficult to leave this class of fruit there."

"Our stored and shipping warehouses already could be full of an-pies but for the outlet to Portland

by barge," said J. F. Clark, sales manager of the apple growers' association.

J. C. Duckwall, Odell shipper, says lack of cars is resulting in cancellation of orders because of inability to deliver the apples on time.

Local shippers have joined in appeals to the Interstate Commerce commission and the rail lines.

Spanish King Spends Big Sum For Clothes

TOURIST (Calif.), Nov. 7.—King Alfonso of Spain spends $10,000 yearly on ordinary personal attire. Most of this goes to London tailors, who the King says are the only men in the world who "know how to make a pair of pants."

Other European monarch spends anything like that amount of dress, nor is there one so puni-tious about being garbed in the latest fashion.

The youthful ruler is never seen more than a half dozen times in the same suit and many are discarded after being worn once or twice.

He complains bitterly if the number of suits in his wardrobe falls below 100 and wears of size must wait for it to be replenished.

Alfonso averages each year around 120 new suits, 70 fancy

walstcoats, 200 shirts and 100 scarfs and hats, etc. in proportion.

PRODUCTS SHOW WILL OPEN NEXT WEEK IN FRESNO

Auditorium Is Being Decorated And Final Plans Made For Event

Decoration of the Civic Auditorium and installation of exhibits there, have begun in preparation for the annual Pacific Slope Dairy Products Show to be held in Fresno next week. With the sound of hammer and saw creating considerable din, the interior of the auditorium to-day presented a scene of great activity.

The show will be opened next Monday evening when Mayor Truman G. Hart will deliver an address of welcome. Response to the mayor's welcome will be made by Sam H. Greene, secretary-manager of the California Dairy Council.

Announcement of awards for the best exhibits in the show also will be made Monday evening, to be followed by a special entertainment by the California and Southwestern State Ice Cream Men's Association.

During the show five conventions of members of different branches affiliated with the dairy industry will be held in Fresno, and will bring to this city leaders in the industry from all the Pacific slope states.

Variety of Machines

The educational exhibits will vary from the first Babcock tester invented in 1850 by the famous Wisconsin professor, who virtually revolutionized the dairy industry, to the most modern butter-cutting machine in the world. The original Babcock tester is owned by the University of Wisconsin, and was borrowed by the College of Agriculture, University of California, for the Pacific Slope Dairy Products Show.

The educational exhibits are being installed on the mezzanine floor of the auditorium. Dr. C. L. Ross, house manager of the Bee, will direct the installation of exhibits.

Five County Displays

Five leading dairy counties of California will have displays in the show. They are Humboldt, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Stanislaus and Fresno.

On the main floor will be shown modern refrigeration devices, all sorts of gages and fine instruments, bottle-cappers, latest types of glass

Housing Shortage Is Acute In Rome

ROME, Nov. 7.—The "house hunger," as the lack of dwelling is called in Italian, is increasing in Rome. According to a statement by Dr. Raimondi, municipal councilor, the city needs 100,000 more rooms to house its population of 600,000. The surplus of people is living in unhealthy and immoral conditions, Dr. Raimondi says. There are some quarters of the city where each room is occupied by from six to eight people in the greatest promiscuity and at Porta Metronia, one of the poorest districts of Rome, twenty-eight persons are living in three rooms.

At the very gates of Rome a portion of the population has reverted to the tragic past, and in the excavations excavated in the hills, while others have built straw huts to house their families.

This state of affairs is a consequence of the war. On account of the rise in the price of building materials the construction of houses ceased almost entirely for about eight years. The government tried to meet the situation by appropriating $80,000,000, but at present it is loaned at 3 per cent to workmen, civil servants, etc., for home building.

Such an amount, however, is not enough, according to Dr. Raimondi, for it provides only for the construction of about 30,000 rooms. This, together with 10,000 rooms which are being built by private individuals without state subsidy, makes a total of 40,000 rooms, leaving 60,000 more to be built within the next three years. A further subsidy of $60,000,000 lire is being agitated.

PIGEON STOPS UP FLUE

POTTSVILLE (Pa.), Nov. 7.—A nesting homing pigeon nearly caused the death of Charles Meyer, and his entire family last night. Mr. Meyers, who is city assessor and a newspaper publisher, was awoken by his wife, who was suffused with apprehension of gas, suffocating. The apprehension also affected the members of the family. Investigation showed that the chimney was blocked by a pigeon that had fallen down the flue, its wings being spread upward, blocking the draught. Dr. Earl Stevenson was called and revived the victims.

Churches and Cheese-making

Horse Ties Up Railroad Train For Three Hours

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Overcoat insurance policies for the use of retail stores are announced by Harold V. Smith, secretary of the Franklin Fire Insurance Company of Philadelphia, as the newest item in the insurance line. Mr. Smith believes the policy to be the first of the kind ever issued.

The company agrees to indemnify the overcoat purchaser for direct loss by fire, theft, larceny or robbery, as well as for damage by fire and lightning. Blanket premiums are paid by the store issuing the policies.

According to the policy terms the garment is insured for the full value of the purchase during the first thirty days. After that time the coat commences to depreciate, but the insurance is kept in force for 30 days, after which a loss occurs in that time. The assured will receive settlement based on the sound value of the garment.

Mr. Smith explained that he is issuing the policies under a blanket baggage policy to a retail clothing firm of this city, which has seen the first to purchase the new cover.

Mr. Smith pointed out that by taking these policies the store owner may get a cover of each purchase, with home address. Information which is very hard for retail stores to obtain on cash sales.

BRITISH LAWS ON DIVORCE OPPOSED

Lord Buckmaster Stresses Injustice To Women By Present Code

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Scathing criticism of old divorce laws is made by Lord Buckmaster in an outspoken speech to the Times. A former Lord Chancellor, Lord Buckmaster has always held very strong views on the subject, and has endeavored unsuccessfully hitherto to sweep away by fresh legislation the anomalies in the present-day law dealing with matrimonial causes. During the last weeks of the summer term, at the request of the Lord Chancellor, I submitted to the trial of underhand suits for divorce, and heard about 400 cases," he writes. "They were taken in due order from the list and included every class, but with a large preponderance of the poor, owing to their numbers, and also to the difficulty of their getting decent homes.

"The experience was startling and explains why it is that practically every judge on whom matrimonial duty has devolved has urged a alteration of the law. I believe that the reason why this demand is not universal is that the facts are not known and false modesty prevents their disclosure. Women's societies pass resolutions declaring that if any change be made equality must be established between men and women, forgetting or not knowing, that the present law produces the most insulting inequality, and that it is in the interests of women that reform is needed."

Individual Cases

"I could multiply the recital of individual cases, but lack of space forbids, and the general conditions need attention. Bigamy was extremely common, but entirely confined to poor persons, for bigamy is not a vice of wealth; the rich can find other less illegal outlets for their emotions. The existing statutes, however, provides that bigamy is not sufficient ground for divorce—it must be 'bigamy with adultery'—and though it might be assumed anywhere outside a law court, that a man who has risked penal servitude to obtain possession of a woman was not prompted by platonic love, yet the law requires independent proof of the adultery. Further, this adultery must be with the bigamous wife—adultery with any number of other women is quite inadequate.

"On the question of justice of this ancient judgment I will not comment, but it throws great difficulty in the way of a woman who can prove that her husband has been convicted of bigamy, but finds it difficult to trace and obtain evidence of adultery; in one case before me she almost failed.

DENIAL MADE
GRAPE SEASON
IS TERMINATEDFoley, Fresno Shipper, Says
Crop Of 8,000 Cars Could Be Moved Till January

There are at least 5,000 cars of grapes remaining to be shipped in the Fresno and San Joaquin district. This to-day was the announcement by E. Y. Foley, independent shipper with packing houses at various points in Fresno and the valley.

Many Grapes Picked
In Kings County alone," said Foley to-day, "there are twenty-one cars of grapes in our plants packed and ready to be shipped. Cars, however, are not in evidence. There are sufficient grapes now picked in the valley to keep the packing house crew busy night and day until the close of the week. Saturday, were the needed refrigerator cars forthcoming from the railroads in the quantity needed."

The grapes now remaining to be shipped from the vineyards of the valley are principally of the Muscat, Malaga and Emperor varieties.

8,000 Cars In Valley

There are no less than 8,000 cars of grapes of these varieties in the valley awaiting the delivery of cars so that they may be moved to the consuming market and the receipts paid by the consumer turned into the pockets of the shippers and growers in the San Joaquin Valley," said Foley.

The packing plants at Parlier, Del Rio, Englewood, Dinuba, Hanford, Selma and other grape shipping points throughout the valley all have the same tale of woe to report. There are lots of grapes, but no cars. If there are no cars, the grapes become worthless to the grower and bring in no return in income to the grower, the shipper and the railroad alike.

Answers Railroads

Foley to-day took direct issue with the announcement coming out of San Francisco last night from the railroads which stated the California wine and table grape shipping season to the Eastern market closed at noon yesterday.

The railroads' announcement of yesterday said:

"The California wine and table grape shipping season to the East closed at noon to-day, with a gross value realized on the shipments of about $15,000,000 for the 1921 season, according to figures given out to-day by the traffic experts of the Pacific Fruit Express and the Southern and Western Pacific and Santa Fe railroads.

"Refrigerator carloads this year totalled 1,100, last season's number being 900 or 2,333 as compared with 26,551 in 1921. This year also saw grapes shipped in 6,765 box cars, making the total of cars this year 33,509, or 7,176 more than for last year."

"It is estimated fully 150,000 householders made their own wine from these grapes. The shipments this year amount in pounds to 1,014,270,000. Some 600 cities and towns bought the product."

Could Ship Until January

"The grapes in the San Joaquin Valley that could be moved were the cars here in the quantities required," Foley said. "The grape season could be continued until January 1, were weather and car conditions favorable."

The rain of to-day, according to Foley, was likely to be of no damage to the crop still upon the vine. The weather man in Fresno, Foley stated, had informed him the storm would be of short duration.

Provided the storm clears and the grapes do not fall off, there will be no damage to the grapes upon the vine. The chief source of worry at this time, according to the Foley announcement, is frost. Continued frost would do severe damage to the grapes, but if the weather continues balmy, the grapes would suffer no harm, and would continue to be of commercial value for shipping.

Continued rain for several days would bring the fresh grape season to a close. Fresno shippers agreed to a close, and there were those who said that the present rain following the frost had practically terminated the season. There is the possibility, however, the storm will soon terminate.

The Fresno County Horticultural Commissioner said that the rain would shut off shipments during its continuance, and that following the frost of several days ago it might be expected to terminate the table grape season. It is impossible at this time to estimate just how much of the table grape crop will remain unshipped. It was said, the shipping season has presented a number of abnormal features, including the car shortage, and there is no way of ascertaining the percentage of the grape crop still in the vineyards.

Salage Predicted

Several shippers agreed with the horticultural office that the rain following the frost had practically closed the season, but a few thought that if the rain ceased to-day there would still be a considerable salvage of fresh grapes.

Fresh grapes that were not hit by the frost would be improved by the rain, said one shipper.

DEPORTATION
FIGHT FACING
REEDLEY MANBought Mexican Citizenship
Is Charge Of Immigration
OfficialsBy LEO A. MCCLATCHY
WASHINGTON BEE BUREAU,
Nov. 7.—Jakob Schroeter, residing with relatives at Reedley, Fresno County, has won the sympathy of officials in the immigration commission's office here, but this sympathy may not be enough to prevent his deportation to Russia.

The officials have agreed to permit Schroeter to remain here until June 1st, next year, pending final decision. He will be at liberty on ball.

After the armistice, Schroeter found conditions in Russia not to his liking and went to Germany, from where he hoped to secure passage to the United States. The German officials granted him a passport, but the American consul there declined to issue it. So he went to Mexico, where he was received by the Mexican consul.

But Mexican Citizenship

Arrived in that country, he was taken in hand by policemen who sold him Mexican "citizenship," advising him this would be necessary to secure admission into the United States. He remained in Mexico for some months, later crossing the border to El Paso, Texas, with a relative from Reedley, to which place the two went to settle down with other members of the family, most of whom have renounced their allegiance to Russia and become American citizens.

Schroeter's conscience began to bother him. He wasn't certain whether he was legally a resident of this country, and he wanted to find out. Inquiries he made resulted in an immigration inspector being sent to Reedley to arrest him for having entered the country in violation of the law.

Claim Schroeter Guilty

Officials in the immigration commission's office here say they are satisfied Schroeter would make a good citizen. They do not believe he knowingly violated the law, but say he was "too guilty" in purchasing "citizenship" in Mexico.

Schroeter is at liberty on ball now while federal officials are searching for some loophole that will permit of his remaining in this country. A Fresno attorney has asked that he be placed on parole for one year pending final determination as to what action the government will take.

Officials in the immigration commission's office say that if there is any legal way they can do so, they will permit Schroeter to remain in the United States permanently. Otherwise he will have to be deported.

Post Represented

Posts represented at the meeting were Clovis, Caruthers, Fresno, Fowler, Parlier, Reedley and Selma. Delegates promised a strong representation from each of their towns, including Reedley, although a part of its population would necessarily have to patronize the celebration through arrangements which had been made before the Fresno county celebration was transferred to Selma, said Guy G. Gooner, of the Reedley post.

Thousand Expected To Play In Junior Tennis Tournament

Fresno Bee Donates Eight Cups, One For Each Of The Classes. Superintendent Quigley Has Eleven Courts Available For Tourney Play.

A THOUSAND entrants is the estimate for the Junior Tennis Tournament, announced to-day by Raymond A. Quigley, superintendent of the Fresno Playgrounds. The Fresno Bee is co-operating in this tourney and has donated eight beautiful cups, one for each of the four divisions of boys and girls.

In the past little effort has been made to attract the youngsters into tournament play and it is here that the stars of the courts are developed. Out of these hundreds of boys and girls, many of them playing for the first time, will appear in the years to come, wielders of the racket who will win fame across the net.

It was with the idea of starting Fresno youth en masse in the wholesome, muscle building game of tennis that the Fresno Bee has joined in this tournament and pledged the eight cups and its support.

This tournament will be handled along the same line as those which have been the San Francisco playgrounds famous as a developer of tennis wizards.

Divided Into Classes.

The boys and girls will be divided into four classes as follows: Up to twelve years, from twelve to fourteen, from fourteen to sixteen and from sixteen to eighteen. These four eight divisions will draw from the elementary, intermediate, junior high and high schools. Fresno's private schools also are welcome.

Superintendent Quigley announces that play will start at the separate schools. When the bracket has been reduced to eight or possibly sixteen players they will be thrown together and one large bracket made. This will give all of the better players from the different schools a chance at the cups.

There are eleven courts available for this play. Two additional courts may be secured if they are needed. The courts to be used are Dickie playground, two; Washington playground, three; California Field, two; Holmes, Fink-Smith, Einstein and Longfellow playgrounds, one each.

"I have planned this tournament," declared Superintendent Quigley "with the hope of making tennis players out of the youngsters. In the open matches the little fellows have no chance. If they do enter they are quickly eliminated and the defeat often discourages them. In this tourney they all have a chance to get into the real spirit of the game."

Quail Hunters Have Fair Shooting; Ducks Still High And Wild

Quail hunters are reporting fair success since the start of the season. Over the weekend the little birds were going to the section. Some of those who reported the limit of valley quail are O. L. Phelps, J. J. Riley, W. H. Scherzschmidt, Bill and Mike Angelich. Others, who had excellent shooting, fell short of the limit are: Edward Morris, P. B. Martin, Dr. A. N. Albrecht, W. H. Horning and C. C. Prather.

Duck hunters also had fairly good shooting. A. C. McNeil reported nineteen, and Cesar McClintock twenty at the Los Pinos Club. Most of the hunters reported the body of ducks were still high and wild.

League Horseshoes Secured By Tossers Of Porterville Club

(By Bee Bureau) PORTERVILLE (Tulare Co.), Nov. 7.—League members have arrived for the Porterville Horseshoe Club and will be used for the first time to-night by the members in the first of their two meetings for the week. Albert J. Comstock, organizer of the club, expresses the belief that the arrival of the regulation shoes will counterbalance the election excitement and that the usual number of tossers will be present at the contests this evening. Seven sets of the new clubs, which were in the shipment received, several of the members ordering their own shoes.

More Than One League Necessary For Youths Who Would Play Ball

There is so much interest in baseball among the youngsters on the city playgrounds that Raymond A. Quigley, superintendent, believes the grounds has decided that it will be necessary to organize two leagues and, possibly, three. Last year there was one organization, composed of boys up to 12 years old. The Elsinore Playground Midgets took the title. This year there probably will be several limited teams from each of the playgrounds. These teams are played only on Saturday and will start on December 1.

Santa Barbara Forfeits Game To State Team

Coach Arthur A. Jones of the Fresno State College received a communication from the Santa Barbara Teachers College to-day announcing the forfeiture of the game schedule in the Channel City on Saturday.

Coach Jones and the entire State squad is disappointed over this action as it leaves the local aggregation with an open date, which may be hard to find at this late stage of the season. The Santa Barbara manager gave as his reason that lack of finances made it imperative that the game be called off.

A game to fill in this date will be arranged if it is possible to find a team anywhere near the strength of the Bulldogs. Jones has his gang going at top speed now and wants to keep them at this pace. A week from Saturday the Davis Aggies come for him for what is expected to be the toughest game of the State schedule and Jones declares that he needs another stiff game to put his team in the proper condition for this battle.

Cuthbert Bowlers Win Three Straight From Welding Five

The Cuthbert Bowling five took the Standard Welding five down the line in the Class A League last night, winning all three games. Welding rolled a high score with 213 and had a 40 high game.

In the B League, the Olson Signs won two out of three games from the Crown Printers. Knaub had 202 for high and an average of 170. Tonight the A. L. Madison and Harry Coffey teams will furnish the attraction in the A League and in the B organization the Diamond Tires and Standard Oil fives will meet.

Madera County Quail Are Plentiful, Report

(By Bee Bureau) ZEPRA (Madera Co.), Nov. 7.—The first Sunday of the quail season brought out many hunters anxious for sport, and the lower foothills of Madera County were full of sound of gun and the whirr of wings. Early in the day it sounded like a miniature battle. The birds were reported plentiful and the hunters were more than numerous, the day being an ideal one.

"BEAT MICHIGAN" is the cry at Wisconsin now. Below is shown Nichols, the star center (over the ball) and Captain Rollie Williams, two of Coach Richards' best bets.

YOUNG—A Blue Triangle art class held its first meeting last night and work on Christmas gifts started under the direction of Miss Dorothy Valentine. Another class will be started on Thursday evening.

The advisors of the girls' work of the Blue Triangle Court last night, Alice Maude Wolff addressed the members on Qualities of Girlhood. Are Caught, Not Taught. Plans were considered for the observance of Fellowship Week, November 13th to 15th, when prayers will be offered all over the world by the Y. W. C. A. Services will be held on Monday and Tuesday, the 13th and 14th, at noon in the Grand Theater.

The technical program of the girls' work was discussed by Miss Herta Swindell, new secretary of the department, and those who were studying rulings of the department by claiming they merely were employing the Japanese. Mrs. Fink's order stated that "all persons employing aliens will be regarded as undesirable lessors and their leases will not be renewed."

Have Lost Their Chances.

It is reported that some of the offenders have sought to get back the good graces of the department by appealing, not again to attempt evasion of these rulings, but the secretary is determined they shall not be given another opportunity.

He is said to hold the opinion that some of these lessors undoubtedly would adopt other subterfuges by which the policy of the department could be defeated.

Higher Rentals Charged.

Information reached the department of interior that the Japanese had placed a wholesale embargo on the rice rationing. Some of the program already had been put into effect, particularly at Yakima, Wash., where some of the white lessors had turned the lands over to the government.

Officials now believe this plan has been "nipped in the bud" and have decided upon a strict enforcement of the secretary's ruling to prevent any evasions.

State Should Protect Her Underground Workers

The committee named to consider safety requirements for mines, following the Argonaut disaster, made a report yesterday whose recommendations are definite and comprehensive, and it is practical and preventative of other disasters as they appear to be, should be written into the laws of California at the next session.

Those mine owners already are objecting that these recommendations are too drastic should be given consideration, but profits must not come before human lives.

If there be mines which can be worked profitably only by endangering the lives of workers, then those mines should be closed.

Society cannot tolerate the coming of mangled bodies into money.

The most important feature of the recommendations call for the fire-proofing of timbering, or the installation of sprinklers where that is impossible; the installation of fire fighting systems underground; the fire-proofing of the air lines; auxiliary air lines and safety stations in larger mines; fire doors and other devices.

Whatever may be necessary to render work underground as reasonably safe as that occupation can be made should be required by law.

For the horror of the Argonaut disaster should never be visited upon California again.

The memory of the public and of officials, however, is short, and time dulls the keenest sorrow.

California must be alert to guard against forgetting the lessons of the Argonaut; she must insist that the next legislature take definite action; she must remain on guard thereafter that the laws be obeyed.

A Bill That Should Be Surely Defeated

A Bee special from Washington last month said renewed efforts would be made in the December session of congress to pass the Kellogg bill, which would transfer to federal courts the jurisdiction of our state courts in cases arising under the California alien land act.

Such action was urged upon congress by President Harding when last he appeared before that body, upon the ground that such cases involve a federal or international question.

The measure is even worse than would appear from the foregoing statement, because it gives arbitrary power to the president and the United States attorney general. For its second section reads:

That whenever an action, civil or criminal, is brought in a state court against a citizen or subject of a foreign country to enforce an act passed by the legislature of such state, which is deemed by the president to violate the rights of such citizens or subjects of a foreign country, according to the treaty between the United States and such foreign country, it shall be lawful for the attorney general of the United States, at any time before & hearing or trial upon the merits in such state court, to file an intervening petition for removal of said cause to the proper federal district court.

And the bill further provides that such removal shall take place on the mere filing of the petition.

At last accounts, this Kellogg bill was still before the senate committee on foreign relations, where it had been for many months, and the administration was hoping to get it reported out during the approaching short session.

But Senator Johnson and other Pacific Coast senators were aiming to kill it in committee, if possible, regarding it as a most unwarranted and dangerous measure, which, if enacted, would be an entering wedge of a scheme to centralize power more and more in the national government.

The bill doubtless is intended to cripple the alien land act of this state, whose chief purpose was to prevent further acquisition by Japanese or agricultural lands.

It is well for California that she is ably represented in the senate. And it is certain that both Johnson and Shortridge will spare no effort to accomplish defeat of the Kellogg measure.

BEST* FAMILY CLAIM

INSULTING TO LINCOLN

No man seems safe from the scions who cannot be satisfied unless some strain of blue blood is discovered to which his greatness can be traced.

The latest victim is Abraham Lincoln, concerning whom one of these busbody investigators wrote recently:

So far as his later career being unconnected for by his origin, it is as fully accounted for as is the case of any man. The Lincoln family was one of the best in America.

In another letter dated December 15, 1915, Jefferson wrote:

"I rejoice, as a moralist, at the prospect of the reduction of the duties on wine, by our national legislature. It is an error to view a tax on that liquor as merely a tax on the rich. It is the prohibition of its use to the middle class of our citizens and condemnation of them to the poison of whisky."

But Lincoln himself would have been the last man in the world to claim "superiority" over his fellow countrymen because his family "was one of the best in America."

His great democratic soul would have treated any such claim with the silent contempt it deserves.

Nothing but blindness of an attitude of mind, worthy only of the monarchial and aristocratic traditions of the old world, could think any service was being done either to the memory of Lincoln or his place in the hearts of Americans by such an idea.

One of the secrets of his great hold on the imagination and admiration of his people lies in the fact that he typifies the democratic hope of achievement despite the hardships of birth and early surroundings; of unusual service founded not on a lineage, but on innate goodness and his own high and noble endeavor of glory won from beginnings of the most humble kind.

A little further on in the same letter Jefferson said:

"Fit but the duty at the rate of other merchandise, and we can drink wine here as cheap as we do beer; and who will not prefer it? Every one in easy circumstances (as the bulk of our citizens are) will prefer it to the poison to which they are now driven by their government. And the treasurer itself will find that a penny a peck from a dozen is more than a groat from a single one"

These carefully considered words of one of the greatest American statesmen are worthy of very serious attention. The evils of which Jefferson complains makes the situations of 1815 and 1922 exactly parallel.

Jefferson knew human nature as well as statesmen. He knew that men did not drink poison unless they were forced to it by an artificial prohibition of other and harmless stimulants.

He saw that this prohibition was discriminatory, and that it resulted, as he says, in the drinking of whisky, "which kills one-third of our citizens and ruins their families."

This was true of the whisky which men drank in Jefferson's time, what of the rot-gut stuff which is sold to-day by the bootlegger?

And will not "the bulk of our citizens" to-day prefer good and cheap beer and wine to the poison to which they are now driven by their government?"

A Japanese graduate of Columbia is said to have become a millionaire in his native land by introduction of the American doughnut and ice-cream soda.

Possibly some Californian might follow up that success by introducing to Japan the American hot dog, the waffle and bacon sandwich.

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Farmer Brown's Boy Misses Hens

By THORNTON W. BURGESS
(Copyright 1922 by T. W. Burgess)

The young Fox who was the prisoner of Farmer Brown's Boy was beginning to really enjoy life again. Yes, sir, he was doing just that. You see, he had discovered a way of hunting, even though he was chained to a post in Farmer Brown's barnyard. Three hens now live in Farmer Brown's Boy had let the head out of the henhouse for exercise the young Fox had caught one without being discovered. He had been smart enough to take those hens inside his house to eat, and then he had been in trouble feathers scattered outside.

It was the day after he had caught his third hen that Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that his stock didn't seem as large as it should be. He went into the henhouse to make sure that none of the hens was in there. Then he went out in the henyard and began to count them. Of course, he knew just how many there should be. When he had finished counting he was three short of the proper number.

"That's queer," said Farmer Brown's Boy with a puzzled frown on his freckled face. "I must have miscounted." Then he began to count them over again. Of course, the hens were running around and it was not easy. This time he was two short. He tried it again and this time he was four short.

Farmer Brown's Boy began to lose patience. "I simply can't count these hens while they're running about," said he. "I've tried them three times and each time got a different number. But not once did I count them as there should be. It looks to me as if some were missing. I've got to make sure. I don't see how any can be missing because I don't see what could have happened to any of them. I'll drive them all into the henhouse and count them as they go through that little doorway. Only one at a time can go through."

So Farmer Brown's Boy once more made sure that not a single hen was left in the henhouse. Then he closed the henhouse door, leaving open only the little sliding door made especially for the hens. Then he drove the hens in and counted them as they went through that doorway. When the last one had disappeared the number was three short of the proper number and so he knew that three of his hens had disappeared.

Over there was a puzzled boy that boy was Farmer Brown's boy. He thought of all the things that could have happened to those missing hens and couldn't see how one of those things could have happened. He went into the henhouse and searched very carefully to see if Robber the Rat had gnawed a hole from underneath. There was no hole. The henhouse was perfectly tight. There wasn't a crack that even a slim a fellow as Shadow the Weasel could have squeezed through. He went all around the henyard. There was no place where any fur-eated thief could have crept in. The only thing he could think of was that a Hawk might have dropped down in the henyard when no one was about.

"That must have been it," said Farmer Brown's boy at last. "Well, the Hawk must have been hunting this night, and I'll have to keep an eye out for that fellow. If he has caught three he certainly will try for some more. I'll keep my eye on this henyard for the next three days and see what happens. I can't afford to let Retail have any more hens."

How that young Fox would have chuckled had he heard and understood what Farmer Brown's Boy was saying. Me, how he would have chuckled!

A Few Facts About England's Colonial Record

No. 2

The correspondent might read the Secret History of the English Occupation of Egypt by Wilfrid Scawen Blunt, a very able and popular Englishman who recently died and was buried with great honors. In one place he speaks of the policy of the government concerning Egypt as being "to cynically undermine that I doubt if in the annals of our Foreign Office any parallel to them exists".

The whole book is a record of duplicity, treachery and infamy on the part of the government of Great Britain.

The correspondent also might read India Under Ripon by the same Wilfrid Scawen Blunt and find from that "the shamefully cruel and brutal administration of the natives of India received under the 'beneficent government' of Great Britain".

The correspondent might read the speech of Sir George Cornewall Lewis, who in the debate on the India Act of 1853 said:

I am most confidently maintain that no civilized government ever existed on the face of this earth which was more corrupt, more perfidious than the East India Company was from 1853 to 1854.

The correspondent might find in his reading what Professor Nicholson of Edinburgh once wrote:

The political instinct of the English Government is to covet everything of its neighbors worth coveting, and it is not content until the sin is complete.

The correspondent might read Ideas About India by Wilfrid Scawen Blunt. He will find therein where Great Britain made the Indians pay for railroads they did almost into starvation, to pay for railroads they did not want and memorial buildings to great Englishmen.

He will read therein of chronic starvation of the people of India, where the assessment was 35 to 40 per cent of the gross crop in some districts; where the rye was reduced to the simple labor of his fields because native industries had been suppressed by foreign ones, etc., and he could not, in many cases, pay his land assessment—therefore he starved.

He will read therein how the land was absolutely stolen from the people, and nothing done by the British Government to save death by famine those whom the same British Government had driven to starvation.

He will read therein of the infamous salt tax in India, where even although natural salt lies on the ground, the people are deprived of it; where cattle are impounded if the natives were caught driving the animals to salt ticks; where 6,000,000 pounds sterling to the revenue annually; where it was sold to the people at from 100 to 2,000 per cent on its cost value.

He will find also where the government of India has conducted all the time in the interest of British commerce and never in the interest of the people of India, nor even of humanity.

He will read where the roads in India have been paid for by the grinding taxation of the poor; where the Indian has been forced by the British Government to maintain the English railway to the ruin of his own trade.

He will read where the salt tax has no soul.

He will have a granddaughter who has a boy of three years of age and another seven months, and I have seen her hold each of those children at arms length and smile, and if ever soul gone through the eyes of woman I witnessed it then. A man who will be unable to take care of my child, me thus warrant society in caring him entirely from my custody. I should like to let me look after his health, care for his wants, guide his education and instill into his mind such religious views as I think will enable him to stand against the temptations of a tempestuous world."

WOMEN HAVE SOULS

Editor The Bee—Sir:

When reading a recent copy of The Fresno Bee I came across a statement attributed to the American ambassador to Great Britain when making a speech before a number of American gentlemen to the effect that "woman had no soul".

The ambassador himself has a soul although in his ignorance he may think he has not, and that my long life has taught me that woman is not a thing soulless.

Yours respectfully,

COMPELLORY EDUCATION

Editor The Bee—Sir:

There is now up before the voters in several states a compellory educational bill.

If this becomes enacted into law it will work hardship on many honest, loyal citizens. It will be the degradation and destruction of the great fundamental principle of religious liberty.

Back of this movement is a sinister motive conceived by intolerance and born in prejudice.

Some of the founders of this great Republic were educated in private and home schools, and the people of this nation show them honor. Now some religious zealots are trying to destroy this God-given liberty and freedom, which are the rights of every true American.

"I believe in the public school system. It has been the salvation of our democracy, but the private schools and colleges have been the salvation of the public schools. These private institutions have their place in our educational system. They prevent it from becoming autocratic and arbitrary and encourage its growth along new lines." —H. B. Carter, Fresno.

Nicholas Murray, former president of Columbia University, said the task of educating all the children of America is great enough to make right-thinking men welcome the cooperation of every proper private and public effort to this end."

Thomas R. Marshall in the Chicago Daily News of January 14, 1922, said:

"Unless I develop into such a wise child, me thus warrant society in caring him entirely from my custody. I should like to let me look after his health, care for his wants, guide his education and instill into his mind such religious views as I think will enable him to stand against the temptations of a tempestuous world."
